

CHALLENGE ACTIVITY

1) Summarise the extract in 6 bullet points

- The weather is very odd and bizarre.
- The lack of human habitation and temperature
- What humans could experience by staying there.
- It hasn't got a government because it is its own country.
- There are 50 research stations owned by a number of countries.
- What the stations are used for and

2) Annotate the extract for 3x language and 3x structure features.

'rough seas' - L - Describing how rough the seas are. What people do there?
'Continental causes' - S - alliteration saying how it affects people in that continent.

3) PEEE response:

How does the writer use language and structure to engage the reader?

Offer 1 x PEEE on language and 1 x PEEE on structure.

Firstly, the ~~reader~~ ^{writer} engages the reader by the use of adjectives, 'rough seas'. This engages the reader because it is telling us how rough the seas are so if you were to go over there then it could be quite dangerous. The word 'rough' reminds us of something that could be also a bit violent so, the seas could be also quite violent.

Secondly, the writer engages the reader through the use of alliteration, 'Continental causes'. This engages the reader because it is telling us that if you were to go over there you would have to be aware of what could happen. This is telling us about the dark days which could cause problems with mental health issues.